Best Practices

- Turn the water tap on the white post off prior to packing up at the end of each visit to your RV. A burst water line while you are not in residence can severely damage your RV.

- Close the valves on your propane tanks prior to leaving. A leak in the gas line could result in your trailer filling with dangerous gases.
- Do not leave the air conditioner on in your trailer when you are not in your trailer or when you are using only your screen door. The cool air quickly leaves the trailer giving no benefit for the energy used.
- Upon leaving your unit after your stay, all exterior lights must be turned off except for solar lights. Propane is extremely flammable. Do not store propane tanks or any flammables in your trailer or in your shed.
- When winterizing your trailer, disconnect the electrical cord and water connection from the outlet on the white power pole located on each lot.
